Baird Asks Cooperation of Citizens In Housing Program After Atlanta Meet

Horton Baird reports the return from Atlanta, Ga. Tuesday of a delegation from the Fulton Municipal Housing Commission.

Mr. Baird is the newly appointed Executive Director of this Commission. The object of their trip to Atlanta, which is the Regional Federal Office Headquarters for this area, was to be oriented on the many phases of planning and developing the housing project for Fulton. He reports a most successful visit and says that if and when completed it will be one of the greatest assets Fulton will have acquired.

Accompanying him on his visit were James White, Chairman of the Commission, C. H. McDaniel, Vice Chairman, and Mayor Gilbert DeMyer, who is, as Mayor, is automatically a member of the Commission.

Mr. Baird reports that conferences were had with A. R. Hanson, Director, Atlanta Regional Office, Mr. Thomas, Mr. Franklin and Mr. Beardsley, all upper executive directors of the Public Housing Administration and that the meetings lasted for a full day of indoctrination, and with the co-operation of the citizens of Fulton Mr. Hanson stated that the project would come to completion.

Mr. Baird hopes that the citizens of Fulton will realize the tremendous scope and significance of this Federal Project which many towns around Fulton have already, the beauty it will add, and the need it will fulfill.

Jottings from

Jo's

Note Book

All during the month of January while the radio auctions have been on the air, I have been developing a deep-rooted resentment towards all those people who have been baking up a storm and bringing in those beautiful pies and cakes and candies to be auctioned off for the March of Dimes drive. I have bought a right smart amount of these delicacies and early in the month decided that I would buy one of the cakes for Mary Jo's birthday, which is on the 26th of the month. But as my resentment grew towards those people who seem to be able to whip up a cake with no trouble at all, I decided to dispense with the resentment and join the ranks and make Mary Jo's birthday cake all by my little old self.

I stayed awake a good part of Friday night trying to decide whether I would attempt the monumental task of baking a cake, "from scratch" as the experts say, or whether to buy the prepared mix and whip it up myself. The more I thought about mixing eggs, sugar, flour and butter together the more insurmountable the chore became so I just went down to the grocery store to select a mix that I thought would be "just as good" as the "real cakes." I took 30 minutes to decide what brand to buy and came up with the orange cake mix that won a $25,000 national award for its excellence. "Shucks," I thought, "if the company was willing to pay that much for a recipe, why should I knock myself out trying to improve on it." So I bought the grand sweepstakes winner in cake mixes. When I think of what happened to my baking, I could just as well have bought the ten cents winner and never known the difference.

Ozie, our housekeeper, has rarely even seen me in the cake making mood, and she cleared off every available space in the kitchen to make my chore free of obstacles. When I told her I was going to make Mary Jo's birthday cake a paler color over her face that frightened me, and now I know why!

I read the directions on the box, but carefully. I greased the pans, but carefully. I put the mixer on the right speed, but carefully. I even broke the eggs right down the center and measured the water to within one drop of the amount specified. I set the stove exactly on the temperature required and even stayed around the kitchen and tip-toed so the layers wouldn't fall while they were in the stove. After the prescribed length of time I took the layers out and they looked all the world like layers of cake I have seen at the polio auctions.

Since the cake was orange I decided on a seven minute white icing to jazz up the color scheme and although I substituted cream of tartar, for white Karo syrup as Gladys Hyland suggested, the icing had the consistency it should have had after seven minutes of mixing. What happened after I put the layers together with icing, shredded coconut, pecans and cherries will always be the mystery of my life.

The finished product was a beaut. I showed it to Mary Jo and her guests and her eyes sparkled. "Mother I didn't know you had it in you." And when I put the cake on the stand I never knew the children were going to have to eat it with a spoon, either. To tell you the truth I almost thought they were going to have to eat it off the floor, besides.

Do you know that about an hour after I put the cake on the stand

Judges Dismiss Charges Against Two In Courts

Charges of attempted assault and battery with an automobile against Haywood Bing of Hickman a new employee at American Metal Products Co., were dismissed in Obion County General Sessions court Friday afternoon.

Judge Ebb Gwaltney said he dismissed charges after hearing proof in the case.

Mr. Bing was arrested on the charge last Wednesday after a warrant had been sworn out against him by a member of the United Auto Workers picket line at the plant.

In a similar case against Fred L. Grasfeder of near Union City, held last Wednesday in city court, charges were dismissed by City Judge E. H. Lannon. Mr. Grasfeder was charged with reckless driving and attempted assault with an auto in connection with another incident at the metal plant.

Runaway Boy Found In I. C. New Yards Here

Tony Pellegrini, 14, of Schererville, Ind., who had run away from his foster home, was found Saturday morning in a phone booth in the I. C. new yards here about 4. He was waiting to catch a freight train.

The youth is the foster son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mann of Schererville. The parents were contacted by Chief of Police Jean Smith Saturday morning, but they refused to come after the boy, saying they had turned him over to the County Welfare Department.

According to the police chief, the Welfare officials were either to come for the boy Monday or send the bus fare.

The boy, who was found by I. C. employees Saturday morning, was clad in blue jeans and a light jacket and was "about to freeze," they said. He told them he was en route to New Orleans, where his aunt and uncle lived. He had come part of the way hitch-hiking and the rest of the way by train.

He has been in the custody of the Fulton police department.

New Bank Brings Varied Views In Civic Circles; Stock Issue Double Of First Plan

The response to the sale of stock in the proposed new bank for South Fulton has been fantastic, one of the leaders in the organization told the News on Wednesday. Plans for the bank, in the discussion stage for at least two years among twin city businessmen, began Saturday afternoon when a small group of men made a few calls as to the possibility of selling 1000 shares of stock valued at $100.00 par value. Within several hours the 1000 shares were sold and at press time on Wednesday nearly 2000 shares were spoken for, one of the stock purchasers reported.

While legal steps are being taken with the Tennessee Banking Commission to finalize the financial institution, sources active in the organization said that the new bank hopes to begin operation in about 90 days in a modern bank building proposed for construction on Broadway Street in South Fulton.

Some business leaders were shocked on Monday morning when Radio Station WFUL reported the news about the proposed new bank on its live-wire program on Monday.

The WFUL station manager reported that following the announcement at least a dozen calls were received from interested investors seeking to learn where they could buy some of the stock. Stock sales, it is reported, are limited to 50 shares per investor. Equally as many Kentucky business leaders as South Fulton leaders have purchased the stock, it was learned.

One of the organizers told the News that not all of the stock sales would be designated as capital stock.

If $200,000 is subscribed, he said, perhaps $75,000 will be in capital stock and the balance designated for the surplus account.

The effect of the new bank on existing financial institutions brought varying opinions from business leaders. One of the principal stockholders in a banking firm said that the new bank should act as a stimulant to the economy of the twin cities. He said that thousands of dollars of deposits by local people are spread around in banks in Martin, Union City, Memphis and even Paducah. "This money will find its way back to the twin city area," he believed.

And other sources, somewhat more pessimistic, said that it might greatly decrease the nearly $8,000,000.00 on deposit in both Kentucky banks, much of which would find its way into the new Tennessee bank.

In discussing the new bank with one of the leaders of the movement he said: "Both Fulton banks are so tightly controlled by just a few families that a good many business people feel it amounts to something of a monopoly. Also," he continued, "although local banks have become more numerous in their loan policies in recent years some of the new stockholders are still rankled at being refused what they believed was a secure loan in the past."

As of December 31, 1961 the City National Bank's loan and discount account totaled $1,115,637.72, having almost doubled in the past two years. The Fulton Bank's loan and discount account totaled $1,233,538.69 as of December 31, 1961. As of the same period the City National Bank's deposit account was $4,356,648.45 with a capital stock of $800,000.00 and a surplus account of $800,000.00. The Fulton Bank, as of the end of 1961 year had deposits of $3,514,571.62 with a capital stock account of $50,000 and a surplus account of the same amount. Both are members of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation with accounts insured up to $10,000.00.

A spot survey of some of the stockholders included large manufacturing concerns, hospitals and professional men, retail and wholesale firms and some of the twin cities' largest estates.

Within recent years both the Fulton Bank and The City National Bank have undertaken major remodeling programs of their housing facilities. The City National Bank maintains a large free parking lot for its customers and the Fulton Bank has purchased an area behind its bank for a free parking space and is in the process of demolishing the buildings to establish the lot for the convenience of persons doing business with the bank.

The Fulton Bank is in the process of increasing its capital stock from $50,000 to $100,000, pending the action of the Kentucky State Banking Commission.

Senate Realignment Bill Offered; Would Put Fulton, Hickman In 2nd

A bill to realign all 38 senatorial districts—for the first time in 20 years—was introduced Friday by Rep. Albert Dempsey, an Inez Republican.

Dempsey said the measure, if it passes, would not take effect until Jan. 1, 1964, and thus would have no bearing on present state senators until their terms expire.

Candidates for the new Senate posts would run in 1963.

The Constitution requires Kentucky to re-district its legislative areas every 10 years but the last such move occurred in 1942.

Among districts that would be affected:

Jefferson County would be atlowed eight instead of five senators.

Kenton and Fayette counties each would be raised from one to two senators.

Henderson would be taken away from the district including Union and Webster and placed in one including McLean, Ohio and Muhlenberg counties. Muhlenberg now is with Todd and Logan counties. Hickman and Fulton counties, now in a district with Graves and Marshall, would be put in a district with Carlisle, Livingston, Ballard and McCracken.

Mason County would be switched to a more westerly district in-

Treas Named Postmaster At Fulton

Congressman Frank Albert Stubblefield said today that he had recommended Joe W. Treas for the postmastership at Fulton.

Month Long Radio Auction Ends With Country Ham, Good Report

By Mary Nelle Wright

Most anything can happen in Fulton . . . and there was positive proof on Wednesday morning when the most unusual breakfast that ever happened . . . HAPPENED. To tell the truth, it wasn't so unusual to a certain group of gals . . . and guys, because it seems that a breakfast similar to this occurs every year just about this time. We're talking about the ANNUAL MARCH OF DIMES breakfast for those who work during the radio auction from WFUL.

To some of us, it seems a little unusual that breakfast would be served in the offices of the Fulton-South Fulton Chamber of Commerce . . . with everyone bustling about frying country ham, setting the table, pouring the orange juice, opening the jelly, and taking orders as to "how do you want your egg cooked." But to top it all off . . . when this writer answered the phone and Christine Batts (at the other end of the line) said, "Mary Nelle, I'm up here at Graham Furniture Company, and I want to know when you want me to put the biscuits in" . . . that's when I decided that SOMEBODY was SNAFU'ED. But . . . there wasn't a thing wrong . . . because Christine was really up there at Graham's . . . and she was just ready to open the oven of one of those fine Frigidaire stoves . . . and cook the biscuits for the gang at the breakfast!

Charlie Burrow, the "pappy" of the Radio Auction Gang was official host for the occasion and he brought . . . GUESS WHAT . . . COUNTRY HAM . . . and was it good? W. L. Carter who has served as official COFFEE SERVER during the entire auction was there with the coffee perking and making all of us hungrier by the minute . . . Mrs. Johnson, Christine's mother, brought a gallon of orange juice and was "bussing around" (as she has during the entire month) seeing that everything was in order. Frankly, I don't know how all of us ever would have gotten along without those two.

Josephine Omar scrambled mounds of golden eggs, Ann Holland fried the ham with the assistance of Ethel McDaniel, and Mary Latta served as the official "checker" to see if the table was set. Mary brought some of Bertie's famous damson preserves made by the Pierce, Tennessee recipe. Bertie, you know is Mary's mama and when we were kids, we always looked forward to a visit in Pierce each summer to eat damson preserves and drink buttermilk. Jane Edwards, the member of the team who always buys up all of the hog jowl and turnip greens at the auction, busied herself scraping up the plates saving bones for Johnny Stayton's two hounds. And everyone was happy to have Johnny at the breakfast because he has always helped Col. Burrow with the auctioneering. In fact, everyone is always indebted to Johnny and also to Bill Gray who does a fine job as substitute auctioneer. Our thanks go to Cavita Olive, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce who has helped the gang in so many ways. And we also want to thank Montez Baird and Gladys Simon who substituted several days during the auction.

Louis Weeks came to the breakfast, just a little late . . . but it's never too late for Louis to eat country ham. Our thanks go to him for the help he gave us.

We wish that all of you could have been with us at the breakfast, and we are so sorry that Jo Westpheling, our Fulton County Chairman for the March of Dimes, was unable to be with us. Jo had an abscessed tooth which surely eliminated her chance to eat that wonderful country ham.

To sum it all up . . . we had a wonderful time . . . and as Mr. W. L. Carter asked the blessing, it was evident that all of us had a feeling of thankfulness for the privilege of having participated in a drive to raise funds to help blot out such diseases as polio, arthritis and birth defects.

All of us who worked in this effort would like to express our appreciation for the efforts the contributions made by everyone. Without the cooperation of the entire community . . . the 1962 MARCH OF DIMES could not have been the success that it was.

Hope Comes to The Mentally Retarded in State And Federal Programs To Meet The Problems

"... to one he gave five talents, to another two, to another one, to each according to his ability."—Matthew 25:15

For centuries it has been recognized that people are endowed in different ways. No two people are alike. Each child is different from every other child. The differences are in appearance, size, physical strength, ability to master certain skills, ability to understand, to do things and to think.

There is a wide difference in the scale of abilities. At one extreme of the scale there are the geniuses who have the ability to create, to invent and to lead, at the other are those who cannot master even the simplest skills, who cannot solve the simplest problems and who cannot take care of their own simplest needs.

These persons who fall somewhere near the bottom of the scale are referred to as mentally retarded. There are over four million of them in this country... approximately 91,000 in Kentucky.

For centuries, even within the present century, little attention was directed toward helping the retarded; today this is not the case. No longer is the problem of mental retardation considered a minor matter, the concern only of a few specialists. The mentally retarded are recognized as a widespread problem which affects many people.

"It (mental retardation) is our greatest health problem..." says President Kennedy.

"... additional funds are absolutely necessary, and accordingly I am recommending $4,405,000 for the biennium—more than double the amount we are now spending," Gov. Bert Combs said in his budget message to the 1962 Kentucky General Assembly.

"This General Assembly is obligated to act wisely and magnanimously for this segment of our population..." says a Kentucky legislator.

"Finally after years of worry and frustration I can see hope for my child and the thousands like her," said a parent.

"It appears a new day is dawning for Kentucky's mentally retarded and their parents..." so wrote a newspaper editor.

"In planning programs for the mentally retarded, we must ever keep in mind a philosophy that all retarded individuals, regardless of race, creed, geographical location, or degree of retardation, should have the right to the medical, psychological, vocational, social, educational and training services necessary to assist them in achieving the greatest development relative to their abilities," Charles E. Acuff, director of the Division of Mental Retardation points out.

And so, it is with gratitude that we publish the efforts being made to help those who desperately need the help of God's more talented servants.

Girl Scout Camp In Trouble; Your Help Urgently Needed

With the birthday slogan of the National Girl Scout fiftieth Anniversary as their goal, the Bear Creek Girl Scout Council starts a month long campaign.

In 1945 the Council leased from TVA 133 acres on beautiful Kentucky Lake for a camp site. In the years since then thousands and thousands of girls from Western Kentucky have enjoyed Established Camp and Troop Camping in a setting unequalled for beauty, nature study and water front activities.

Since 1945, with the help of friends and proceeds from Cookie Sales we have built units—improved water front and purchased equipment to where we now have $50,000 dollars worth of improvements on the land.

But as time marches on, the lease on the land has, too. And now we are faced with the problem of either buying the land from TVA or sacrificing all we have done. And we can't let the girls down.

So the Bear Creek Council is faced with the task of raising $25,000 to purchase the land from TVA. The nine counties that comprise the Council are joining in a concerted effort to raise the necessary funds starting January 22, 1962. And while the amount necessary seems like a lot, it is a great deal less than the actual value of the land itself.

Naturally a great deal of support will be forthcoming from the Girl Scout family but help from other friends will be badly needed to make the dream a reality.

In areas where Community Chest or United Funds, or Local Fund Drives contribute to the Girl Scouts, their money is used for operating expenses and not for capital improvements such as the purchase of a camp site. This is a one time drive, and will add immeasurably to the program and enjoyment of all our girls, our help is needed—please don't let the girls down!

SERMONETTE OF THE WEEK

Can Someone

Several days after the accident that claimed the lives of his parents and his brothers and sisters, seven-year-old Randy still woke up crying for his mother, hospital nurses reported.

After such a tragedy as this, one has little stomach for trying to assess blame. What good would it do? The father-driver is dead, and one should speak well of the dead. We're sure that if we had known him personally there would be many good things we could say.

But following an accident of this nature, it is the practice and duty of State officials to review the driving record. There it was in black and white: three previous convictions for speeding, one for making an illegal turn.

Yes, there it was: the all-too-familiar violation-accident pattern, the reason why we need traffic law enforcement, an effective point system, and a program for dealing wisely but firmly with problem drivers.

Many voices have been raised on behalf of drivers allegedly persecuted by diligent traffic officers. Many have called the point system too harsh. Many have, in effect at least, defended a driver's right to stretch the speed limit a bit; what's the harm?

Among all these voices can someone hear a little boy crying for his mother?

Those who want much are always much in need.

100 Years Ago This Week

An Historical review of THE CIVIL WAR DAY-BY-DAY (Material is from publication of exactly one hundred years ago—original wording from references in the Library of Congress, Washington. Reporting in the papers was usually very one-sided; we seek to be fair in coverage and preserve a national balance... ED.)

BY WILLIAM H. McHENRY

First week in February

February of 1862, and soon the Confederacy would be a year old. The month began with a Union force in firm control of Port Royal, S. C., where the Union now had a good base to supply the fast-building fleet of blockade ships which would strangle the South's commerce.

Everyone in the South knew that the North had been preparing a land-and-sea force under Burnside. A fleet of ships had assembled at Ft. Monroe, and the papers had printed the list of men and supplies, but only a few knew the destination.

January 29, of 1862, the Northern papers had these headlines: "Burnside Expedition arrives at Hatteras Inlet. Gales of wind, great difficulties, damage to ships."

The Hatteras forts had been captured late in August of 1861. The fleet of ships with Burnside had no trouble from the Confederates in entering Pamlico Sound through the inlet, and once inside it was no trouble for the Union fleet to sail northward and land a sizeable force on Roanoke Island.

For some time the Richmond papers had been demanding that the troops on Roanoke Island (they were mostly Virginians) either be reinforced or evacuated. It was simply impossible for the South to be able to defend any and every spot where the Northern soldiers might land!

Roanoke Island fell on February 8, and two days later the Union army captured Elizabeth City, N. C. The Union planned to march along the line of the Dismal Swamp canal and enter Portsmouth and Norfolk. Those plans never materialized, not even after another three years of fighting. The North would capture and hold New Burn, and would hold Plymouth for awhile, but the majority of the strong points of the inland waters would be held by the South until after Appomattox.

January 30, 1862, and the North took another legal (or extra-legal) step which would help the North to win the war. The President of the United States was authorized to take over the telegraphs and railroads. This is something that the South has been blamed for not doing. It must be remembered that the Confederacy was not yet a year old, and it was against the State's Rights policies for the Confederate government to take over private property.

As part of the Confederate defense line, thousands of miles long and with only a few strong points, there had been two forts constructed on the Tennessee and Cumberland Rivers. Ft. Henry and Ft. Donaldson were where the two rivers, both flowing southward from the Ohio into Tennessee, were only about fifteen miles apart.

Ft. Henry had been started in June of 1861. U. S. Grant was in charge of the department which embraced western Kentucky, and as such, he would be in charge of any Union force which set out to capture the forts. A month before, Grant had gone to St. Louis to request permission from Maj. Gen. Halleck for a move against Ft. Henry. Halleck did not even listen to Grant. Again on Jan. 28 Grant asked permission. Flag-Officer Foote, in charge of Union gunboats, backed Grant's request. Halleck agreed and soon History would be made!

Grant received instructions February 1, on February 2 the expedition started! Grant had 17,000 men on transports. Flag Officer Foote had seven gunboats. Grant landed his men a few miles below the fort; the gunboats went up the river and engaged the guns of the fort in a bombardment.

Inside Ft. Henry were about 3,400 men. Gen. L. Tilghman, the Confederate General, had expected to fight Grant, but the river was over his banks, and much of the fort was under water. Tilghman knew he could not hold the unfinished fort against such a great force, so he sent most of his men across to Ft. Donaldson. To delay the Union army, 75 artillerymen were left in the fort. After five minutes of fighting, a cannon in the fort burst and disabled every man who served it. The gunboats dropped over 400 shells and put the guns out of commission. 59 shells from the fort peppered the gunboats, and put the Essex out of commission, but the fort had to surrender. The man who pulled down the flag had to wade water to his waist.

The Tennessee River was open, and the army coming through the mud could march across the narrow neck of land to invest Ft. Donaldson.

Ft. Donaldson would require considerable more fighting!

Thanks to Mrs. Ruby Roberts of North Little Rock, Ark., for the old stamps. I'll send them on to Sue.

We could like to welcome to Fulton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Myrick of 202 Sixth Street, Fulton.

The Myricks have moved to Fulton from Memphis. He has recently been discharged from the service and is going to manage the City Service Station on Fourth Street Extension.

They have two children, a little girl, 4 1-2 years and a little boy, 16-months-old.

Mrs. Myrick says so far as they know they are not related to the Myrick family, long residents of this community. She belongs to the Cumberland Presbyterian Church.

Tried to call Mrs. Sam Winston on the phone this week, but failed to reach her. According to what I hear, she had a most interesting plane ride recently. It seems that she was enroute to Fulton from New York, via Nashville and Memphis. Because of bad weather, her plane could not land at Memphis so flew on to Dallas, Texas.

There the red carpet was rolled out for the plane passengers. Following dinner at the Dallas airport, they returned to Memphis.

From what I hear, no one on the plane was scared, but everyone enjoyed their unexpected visit to Dallas.

I just know that a certain woman was scared half to death Thursday evening. She went out and got into what she thought was her car on the Fulton Hospital parking lot about 4:15 p. m. She had driven all the way to Martin before she realized that the car was not hers but one like hers. She immediately drove it back to the Fulton police station. In the meantime, Gerald C. Powell went for his car and finding it missing called the police. The local police put it out on the air in the area.

It seems that both cars, which looked alike, were parked side by side, and each driver had left the keys inside.

James Woodard Tipton of Route 1, Hickman has been nominated as second alternate for appointment to the Air Force Academy. He was nominated by Senator Thurston B. Morton.

A 13 percent increase over last year's enrollment for winter quarter at The University of Tennessee at Martin brought the figure to a record high of 1,171 regular day students registered for the period.

Others in the area are: Kathlene Golden of Water Valley, Judith Ann Hilliard, Clinton; and Patsy Ann Williams, Fulton.

Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Gerald Martin have been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Martin of Fulton and Clinton for the past two weeks. He left Sunday for Iceland, where he will be stationed. His wife and baby remained here for a visit with his parents. He has been stationed at Corpus Christi, Texas.

Diary of Doin's

(Items gathered along Fulton's merryway for your pleasure and your scrapbook)

If we were to single out a group of people on this here now earth who deserve the best in this world and eternal happiness in the hereafter, it's the music teacher, with a special commendation for the long-suffering souls who teach piano to youngsters who can barely read. For more years than we like to remember we've been attending piano recitals first as a reporter and then as a parent and the time has come when we're forced to say there must be an easier way to make a living. The amazing thing about our observation is that all the piano teachers we know are extremely capable people and can make a living easier, but for reasons known only to themselves they would rather teach music than be First Lady and that's the thing that beats us.

Sunday afternoon we attended duet and then one of the boys the mid-year recital of piano teacher Doris Wiley, and again we were flabbergasted that such a lovely lady could be so endowed with such patience to start out with nothing but a keyboard and a student and the first thing you know the keyboard is the way it started, but the student is running up and down it with all kinds of intricate notes to produce the beautiful sound of music, when all they started out with was plunk, plunk, ker-plunk and plink, plink.

Now let's take the case of James Reed, Jane Edwards and Ophelia Speight, just as for instance. We heard these talented young people play the piano when they stared at the keyboard as though the white keys would strangle them and the black keys would devour them. They announced their numbers in trembling voices and then sat down to play their simple little selections and before we had time to realize what they were playing they were finished. Today, these same youngsters can approach the piano and tackle piano numbers that would make the experts drool and they all started out with the plunk, plunk, ker-plunk. We admire the student of course, but what we can't figure out is how the piano teacher had the fortitude to look ahead to the years when the student would eventually absorb all that fantastic bit of learning.

We think that here and now a "National Be Kind To Music Teachers Week" ought to be proclaimed, because they certainly need it. We heard Tom and Jim Powell, young sons of Mr. and Mrs. Flynn Powell make their musical debut Sunday afternoon. They seemed to enjoy the experience immensely. They played a August, she says.

Mrs. Combs is curing 90 hams with ingredients and a method that are a "family secret."

Reared on a farm in Knott County, Mrs. Combs used to watch her parents cure hams, and often wished she could do it. She saw no reason why she couldn't at the Governor's Mansion.

Mrs. Combs bought green hams from a packinghouse. She prefers 18-to-22-pound ones. She smoked them in a cellarlike place on the Mansion grounds. She began her project around December 1 (between Thanksgiving and New Year's is the best time, she says). The weather and "those other things" should make them just right by next fall.

Mrs. Combs took up ham curing strictly as a hobby. "It is great relaxation and a diversion," she said.

Mabel Combs is a modest, shy woman. Her family—the Governor, daughter Lois, and son Tommy—is her life. She is a worker and says she would be miserable if she couldn't do some of the things she did at her home in Prestonsburg before her husband became Governor two years ago.

She tries to adapt family life to the Governor's busy schedule. She beams with pride at a new, fully equipped kitchen just off the family living room on the second floor of the Mansion.

There she can cook favorite meals for her family. Cabinets are stocked with pickled corn, relish, pickles, etc., that she canned herself. She also sews and does her own hair.

Mrs. Combs watches grocery advertisements, and often drives her own car to the grocery to do the shopping herself. She and her sister, Mrs. Hazel Savage, housekeeper at the Mansion, plan the menus.

Yes, the Combses have a garden, too. "Bert is the gardener," Mrs. Combs said. One of his tomatoes last summer weighed about 3 pounds.

What about her two years in the Mansion, which Mrs. Combs prefers to call "The People's House"? "It has been a lot of fun," she replied.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Books have sold their apartment house at 112 Oak Street to Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Emily of Independence, Mo., and have purchased a new home at 208 Venable Street in South Fulton. They have already moved into their new home. Mr. and Mrs. Emily—she is formerly of Fulton—are planning to make South Fulton their home after his retirement.

The Rev. J. L. Leggett and his family were honored by the members of the First Methodist Church Sunday evening at 6 with a potluck supper in the church dining room.

Sharing the honors with the pastor were his wife, Edna, his daughter, Alice Jo, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Leggett.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service had charge of arrangements and all members of the church were invited to attend following the vesper service.

The Leggetts are moving this week to Paris, where he has accepted the pastorate of the First Methodist Church. His successor here the Rev. W. T. Barnes of Humboldt will begin his new duties this week.

Speaking to the Victory Homemakers Club meeting Thursday at the K. U. office, Mrs. Hiram Brown and Mrs. Harold Williamson told the members: "We must always make our food and dining table colorful and attractive and our family will enjoy the meal and be happy."

They told the members to prepare "special occasion" meals to be more than preparing the favorite food for more particular member of the family . . . especially on birthdays, anniversaries, etc. When having a family get-together always give everybody a job, and the meal will be much more enjoyable.

The method that Mrs. Bert Combs is using to cure 90 country hams is a well-kept family secret. They should be right, she says, by fall.

Mrs. J. C. Wilber honored her little daughter, Darlene, with a party on her fifth birthday last Wednesday at her home at 301 Forestdale, South Fulton.

Mrs. Harvey Vaughan was hostess to the Chestnut Glade Homemakers Club in January for an all-day meeting.

Twelve members of the Palestine Homemakers' Club and two visitors were present on January 19 at a meeting in the home of Mrs. Charles Powell.

The Welfare Workers Home Demonstration Club met in the lovely home of Mrs. Roy Nabors, January 24 with an all-day meeting. Mrs. Roy Watts called the meeting to order. Mrs. Bertie Phillips led the group in song.

Mrs. Lucile Ogden gave the devotional and Mrs. Mary Parrish read the club creed. Roll call was answered by 10 members and two visitors. Mrs. Eva Williams and home agent, Mrs. Go Larsen. Mrs. Dorothy Watts read the minutes and the report. Old and new business was discussed. A delicious potluck luncheon was enjoyed at the noon hour.

Mrs. Ruth Sheridan, vice-president, took over with the project leaders. Mrs. Robbie Elliott gave home furnishings; Mrs. Irene Nabors, food and nutrition; Mrs. Dorothy Watts reading. Mrs. Larsen gave the lesson on "Civil Defense," which was very good. Recreation was enjoyed by all. Robbie Elliott and Dorothy Watts were the winners.

The club adjourned to meet with Mrs. Lon Watts and Mrs. Bob Elliott as co-hostesses February 28, at 10:30.

Grocery stores in Tennessee sold an estimated 24.2 million pounds of frozen broilers, whole, cut-up, and parts in 1960.

cluding Pendleton, Bracken, Robertson, Harrison, Nicholas and Bourbon counties.

Rep. Luther Morgan, D-Shelbyville, offered a bill backed by 10 sponsors that would have a widespread effect on public works wages in Kentucky.

It would change the power to fix prevailing wages from the Prevailing Wage Board from the Department of Industrial Relations, to the proper public authority handling the project.

The measure specifies that prevailing wages "shall not be less than the prevailing wages paid in the same trade or occupation in the locality."

Several wage board decisions on rates have caused strong reaction in local communities which felt the wages were unrealistically high for the area.

Morgan's bill presumably would let a school board, for example, set prevailing wages on projects for which it lets a contract.

Under a bill introduced by Sen. C. W. A. McCann, D-Louisville, the penalty for unlawful horse race betting would be increased from 12 months to 1-5 years imprisonment.

The measure also would create a wagering director to license persons taking wagers outside licensed racing enclosures.

Rep. John Isler, D-Covington, introduced a measure that would let counties containing second class cities appoint a building inspector. That authority now is limited to counties with first class cities.

A bill offered by Rep. Brooks Hinkle, D-Paris, would change the commencement dates and length of circuit court terms in Bourbon, Scott and Woodford counties.

Rep. Vernor Cottengim, D-Covington, offered a bill to let workers unemployed by a strike begin collecting unemployment benefits seven weeks after the walkout.

Two Men Remain Calm When Seen Breaking Into Store

Two men attempting to break the lock on the front door of Andrews Jewelry Store remained calm and asked where they could buy a mixed drink, when Irvin Schaffer, an employee of Happy's

Liquor Store, stepped out of the liquor store next door and saw them at the jewelry store door.

When Mr. Schaffer went back into the liquor store to call the police the two white men left in a hurry.

When the police arrived, they found the lock broken, but the pair had fled. The building was not entered.

Hickman Spanish Teacher Pays Good Neighbor Visit To Mexico

A good neighbor from Kentucky celebrated Christmas in two countries last year. The first he spent with his family in Hickman on Dec. 25. The second he spent in Mexico Dec. 28 promoting friendly relations between the states of Kentucky and Tamaulipas.

Tamaulipas which borders Brownsville, Texas on the northeast coast of Mexico, is one of the country's 29 states. Governor Bert Combs sent a Kentucky Colonel's commission to Tamaulipas governor Norberto Trevino Zapata. Carrying the good wishes of Kentucky on the visit was J. M. Lamb, 45-year-old Spanish teacher in Fulton County Schools. As an added measure of friendship, he carried gifts of well-known Kentucky and Hickman products—bourbon and pecans.

The idea of a Christmas in Mexico was conceived by Lamb as a promotion for Hickman's Pan-American Day parade slated April 14. Gov. Zapata was invited to send a representative of his state to the Hickman observance.

The amiable, enthusiastic teacher has made Spanish so popular in the county that it is now being taught in grade school, high school and adult classes. The language comes rather naturally to him, having grown up in Asherton, Texas near the Mexican border.

Lamb and the Hickman Jaycees hope to plan a week-long schedule of events in connection with the April 14 good-neighbor observance. A Venezuelan consul has already accepted an invitation to attend.

Amendment To Selective Service Regulations Explained By Director

A recent amendment to Selective Service Regulations issued by the President, was explained today by Lt. Colonel Everett S. Stephenson, Kentucky State Director of Selective Service.

"The regulation was amended to create a new selective service classification. The new classification is Class I-Y," the State Director said.

"Registrants who are found not qualified by the Armed Forces for military service under current physical, mental, and moral standards, but who are considered to be qualified to serve in an emergency will be placed in the new class. Previously such men were placed in Class IV-F. Only men not qualified for any military service will be placed hereafter in Class IV-F," the State Director added.

"Current standards of physical, mental, and moral acceptability are higher than those which the Armed Forces would use in an emergency," the State Director said.

The new classification permits the ready identification day by day of men who are considered to be qualified and available in an emergency, and thus facilitates the mobilization of manpower rapidly in case of need.

Colonel Stephenson estimated that 40 percent of the registrants of Kentucky, now being found not qualified by the Armed Forces, would be eligible for the new classification. This estimate was based on a pilot project.

"A review of the files of the 87,020 IV-F registrants in the state's 136 local boards indicated that approximately 35,000 will be eligible for possible military service in a declared emergency," Colonel Stephenson said.

Colonel Stephenson added, "The local boards in the state of Kentucky had anticipated the change in the regulations and are ready, upon receipt of amended regulations, to reclassify those registrants into the appropriate classification."

Sixth Grade At Carr Elementary Puts Out Fine Issue Of Paper

"The Sixth Grade Flash", a newspaper published by students of Carr Elementary School, is a fine little newspaper.

The staff is composed of Glenda and Roma, (didn't have last names listed) Editors; Steve and Donnie, publishers; Becky and Joe, Sports Editor; Cindy, Society Editors; Mike and Paul, Circulation; Lady Rose and Susan, Proof readers; Carman, Patsy and Peggy, Cartoonists.

In the mail Tuesday The News received a copy of "The Flash", accompanied by a very nice letter from Mrs. Leonard Allen, a teacher at Carr Elementary.

Her letter, explaining the paper, follows:

"Mr. Holland thought you might be interested in seeing this copy of our little newspaper. This was the culminating activity in a language arts unit.

"There are many errors in the paper, but the children enjoyed doing it and had many interesting and worthwhile experiences leading up to the paper's printing."

"There was parliamentary procedure in selecting the staff. We studied the make-up of large newspapers, small town papers and school papers.

"We reported on newspaper clippings from other papers; wrote news stories; studied synonyms, antonyms, and homonyms; dramatized telephone conversations for obtaining information; did personal interviews; reported ball games; and wrote features.

"Of course you need the cartoonists' explanations to understand the cartoons but they were perfectly clear and meaningful after you heard them. They just don't understand how limited our imaginations are.

"This is just another example of unit work in our public schools. We thought, since it was in your line, you might enjoy it."

(Eds. Note: We certainly did! Keep up the fine work, boys and girls!)

TRANSFERRED TO MEMPHIS

Mrs. Linnie Clark was transferred Sunday from the Fulton Hospital in Memphis in a Hornbeak ambulance. Her room number is 944.

Gobel To Star In John Deere Show In Fulton

George Gobel, noted TV personality, will star in the coming John Deere Day program to be held at Fulton Theatre February 5, at 9:30 A. M. by Burnette Tractor Co., host for the event.

In addition to lending his comedy to the role of "Uncle Henry" in a film fantasy which serves as a background for the entire program, Gobel will also double on film as the program's master of ceremonies.

According to Mr. Burnette, this year's film is altogether different from any previously shown in John Deere Day.

Woven into the program, which features, besides Gobel, Hollywood's John Carradine and child actor Billy Mumy, are six additional educational, informative films. These include the best in "Oddities," a collection of the most popular "Oddity" films shown in previous John Deere Days since the series began some years ago. Also included is "All in a Day's Work," an unusual harvest film showing late-model combines being checked in grain fields in various parts of the country.

Other films are "Pattern for Performance," the story of the relationship between careful manufacturing, checking, and testing of tractors, and the performance of the tractors in the field; "One-Man Hay Day," a report on the John Deere one-man haying system and the way it pays off in lowered labor cost and in increased milk and beef production from better hay; and "Partners," a film story showing the united efforts of manufacturer, dealer, and farmer in giving impetus to the business of agriculture. Of course, the highlight of the program is "What's New for '62," a complete line-up of what's new in tractors and equipment.

"It's a Family Program" said Burnette Tractor Co. "It's a real good blend of entertainment and information with enough smiles to make it truly enjoyable and enough serious interest to make it really worthwhile. The program will be free to all farmers and their families. And you don't have to own a John Deere Tractor to attend—just being a practicing farmer is ticket enough."

Miss Patsy Ann Austin Of Fulton Becomes Bride Of Charles Russell

Charles Robert Russell of Memphis, grandson of Mrs. Charles Lee Russell of Jackson, and Mr. and Mrs. William Gowan of Bemis, Tenn., claimed as his bride the Miss Patsy Ann Austin of Fulton at an afternoon ceremony Church, Jackson, December 30.

The Rev. Nowell Bingham read the vows before the altar decorated with red carnations and greenery. Candelabra on either side held red candles marking family pews were red satin bows.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Pell Austin of Fulton and granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Davis. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. William Beecher Russell of Memphis.

Mr. and Mrs. Barney Thompson presented nuptial music before the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride entered the church on his arm gowned in a white brocade dress fashioned with a scalloped neckline and long pointed sleeves. The bell skirt of ballerina length was created of inverted pleats in the back that gave a bustle effect. Three bows fastened down the back to the hemline.

Her shoulder length veil of illusion fell from a small crown. She carried a white orchid caught with streamers tied with love knots.

Mrs. Jerry N. Hardin of Memphis, the former Miss Barbara Smith of Adamsville, was the bride's matron of honor and only attendant. Her dress of red velvet was ballerina length and she carried a white muff decorated with white carnations.

William Beecher Russell was his son's best man. Ushers were Jerry Stroupe of Nashville and Richard Wilkinson of Selmer.

The reception following the service was held in Wyatt Hall Mr. and Mrs. Austin received guests. Mr. and Mrs. Russell, parents of the groom, also received with the hosts and wedding party.

For a brief honeymoon trip the bride changed to a red wool suit collared in black fur with matching red hat and black accessories.

The couple now lives at 510 Highland Avenue in Jackson. The groom, who received his B. S. degree from Lambuth in May, 1961 is now employed in Jackson. He graduated from Jackson High School, where he was a member of the football squad. He held the office of vice president in the Kappa Alpha Order at Lambuth.

The bride graduated from Fulton High school and attended Lambuth College.

The dining table was attractive with its center arrangement of artificial fruit.

Those present were Mrs. L. P. Carney, Mrs. Ernest Cardwell, Mrs. Grady Varden, Mrs. E. E. Mount, Mrs. Ernest McCollum, Mrs. Monroe Luther, Mrs. Milton Exum, Mrs. Leggett and the hostess.

and put it on the dining-room table that I went in to set the table and got there just in time to catch the first layer of the cake just as it was about to skid off on to the floor. I caught it with both hands and gently placed the first layer on the second layer again, but not until I could scrape all the icing off the table and the chicken salad sandwiches nearby. I DON'T KNOW WHAT HAPPENED. That icing was as thin as water with a little flour in it.

Mary Jo didn't see the skidding layer, but what she did see was even worse. When we went in to the dining-room to cut the cake, all decorated with beautiful red candles, twelve of them, the cake had split right down the middle, both layers, and each piece was hanging precariously over the cake stand. I was shocked. I scooped up more of the icing that had fallen on the table again and sort of cemented the cake together long enough to go through the ritual of cutting the cake. For the first time in her life Mary Jo couldn't blow out the candles... we never lit them for fear the cake would blow up right in our faces.

I intend to write the cake mix manufacturer a letter of protest. Or do you think I should wait until I find out if a twelve year old can cream of tartar is too old to use to make a successful icing?

Committee To Aid In Power Fight

A Citizens Committee for Low Cost Power was organized Jan. 26 to lead the fight for purchase of the Kentucky Utilities Co. power system at Hickman.

The group set a goal of $15,000 to be raised within the next 30 days to finance the Greater Hickman area's fight for low cost power.

Mrs. Waudell Yarbrow was named chairman of the committee, and Malcolm Johnson was elected secretary-treasurer.

A mass meeting is scheduled for Friday night to recruit members for the organization.

The Hickman city council recently notified KU that it was taking steps to purchase the power system here and operate it as a municipal utility. At the same time an electric power board was named.

The power board has not had reply from a letter mailed to Floyd I. Fairman, KU president last Friday asking that a date be set for a meeting between company and city officials.
